

Position: Senior Research and Transatlantic Advisor
Location: London
Salary : Competitive + Benefits
Start date: 2015

ECFR (the European Council on Foreign Relations) is a pan-European initiative which seeks to conduct research and promote informed debate across Europe on the development of coherent, effective and values-based European foreign policy. It has offices in Berlin, London, Madrid, Paris, Rome, Sofia and Warsaw. www.ecfr.eu

Reporting to the Director and working closely with senior managers and policy staff, the Senior Advisor (SA) will play a critical role at the heart of ECFR inspiring the organisation to develop as an innovative think tank by advising the Director on shaping and adding vision to its overall strategic agenda with regard to the changing nature of US foreign policy and its implications for transatlantic relations.

The primary purpose of this role will be to ensure that ECFR's overall programme planning takes account of the transatlantic dimension and responds to major strategic issues in an innovative way and to maximise impact. Offering a strong focus and providing expert analysis on developments in US policy and administration to help guide ECFR's strategic thinking. Developing and maintaining a rigorous system of quality control over ECFR's published materials, as part of an overall quality system that includes talent management, curation and codification of internal knowledge and methodology.

We are looking for a candidate who has the intellectual weight and strength of personality to provide vision and direction to a high quality research operation and to build on ECFR'S already established reputation. Applicants should have a strong knowledge of key transatlantic dossiers such as Afghanistan, Syria, Iraq, Russia, Asia, and security and defense issues, ideally with exposure to the US government and with an established global network. This position requires flexibility, determination and the ability to travel extensively.
